Hill Te Attack Canonea.

An offensive movement south from Naco in Senora Is being planned by Gen. Benjamin Hill, Carranxa commander at that point, according to advices received here. It is stated that Gov. Maytorena, the Villa leader in Sonera, is short of ammunition and that continual friction between the Yaqui indians and the former Huerta federals imported from Lower California to aid Maytorena has so materially weakened his force that he is unable to prevent a Fourhern movement. Camasa will be the first objective of the Hill forces, according to the report.

Gen. Bamon Iturbe, a Carranga leader in Sinaloa, is also reported as active on the Sonera border near the Sinaloa line. His plan, according to the advices, is no cut the line between Guaymas and Hermoallo and then advance north. Iturbe was defeated in a skirmiah between the two factions three days ago, according to Villista advices.

Hermander Quits Villa.

"The lieutenant decided upon an immediate altack. It was then 2:36 in the modning. It was proposed that two placements on fact should approach the convey and fire three shots: A mounted platoon would hurl itself upon the automobiles and charge with their lances those who sought to escape. Another mounted platoon was to remain in reserve.

Open Fire on Challenge.

"The two platoons on foot approached within 40 melers of the automobiles and, when challenged, opened fire. Scarcely had the fire ceased in conformity with orders, than the mounted platoon charged at a gallop, shouting Vive La France.

"The fortunately, the Germans were only partially surprised and a rapid fire gun opened fire. Three French officers were killed and the platoon flerally annihilated. Not one of the troopers reached the automobiles. Seeing this, the lieutenant in command of the two dismounted platoons also ordered an assault. The German machine gun was silent, the gunners having been killed. The dismounted troopers opened fire at a distance of 15 yards. The German, who were crouching along the edge of the road, replied with great courage.

"While this was going on a detachment of engineers threw themselves on the aeroplanes. With pick axes they destroyed the motora, the gasoline reservoirs and the running gear of the German machines. Three automobiles which contained a supply of gasoline, caught fire and threw a giare over the scene.

Attacked German Commander, "Before closing the engagement which the French losses had which the French losses had been great, the courageous commanding officer wanted to engage the automobile in the center of the group, from which the orders to the Germans had been issued. While the reserve platoon was drawing back with the comparatively few men remaining in it, the French lieutenant, followed by only three cavalry men, made his way up to this automobile and found himself face to face with two men, one of whom was an officer. The officer fired on the group of four men with an automatic night. The three cavalrymen fell, the lieutenant received a bullet through the agm. but not before he had been able to discharge his revolver against the chest of his adversary, who sank to the ground.

Hid in Beet Field. The other German in the automobile landed on the French lieutenant heavily with the butt of a musket and the blow sent him spinning into the guiter. Here he lay zemi-conscious for a few moments, but recovered and, with the assistance of another wounded mandragged himself to a field of beets, where they hid."
